

i | SIRONA Project Manager

Responsibilities:

Individual will provide the technical vision, strategic planning, and day-to-day management for implementation projects of an assigned client base. This includes overall client communication, managing client expectations, problem resolution, and project management. The individual will also be responsible for communicating existing and future medical device connectivity solutions to clients and internal employees.

This position requires that the candidate be willing to work out of our corporate offices in Panama City, Florida and be able to travel to client locations as needed.

Experience:

This position requires that the candidate be willing to work out of our corporate offices in Panama City, Florida and be able to travel to client locations as needed.

Education:

Degree in Healthcare or Information Technology or equivalent experience. PMP certification ideal.

Travel:

Position requires 80% travel

Skills:

This role involves substantial interaction with clients, therefore people skills are imperative. Good written and verbal communication skills are necessary, as well as the ability to effectively lead multiple project teams. Strong project management, organizational and analytical skills are essential. Must work well under pressure and be able to handle competing priorities from internal and external clients.

iSirona provides an exciting and rewarding career opportunity in a fast-paced atmosphere with full benefits and unlimited growth potential. Applicants that adapt to change, handle competing priorities, and communicate effectively will thrive in this environment.

If interested, please email your resume to careers@isirona.com. Candidates selected for interviews will be notified by phone or email.